

June Carey

Born in Takoma, Maryland, June enjoyed many hours with her family visiting The Smithsonian and The National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. In 1984 she began painting full time. As a self-taught artist she says, "I just learned everything the hard way."

June has received numerous awards for her California landscapes and coastal scenes, including the Arts for the Parks Region II Award in 1997 and 1998.

Like many Californians, June started out on the East Coast. As a teenager, she came to California. In the 1980's Carey found herself painting desert scenes and became known for this, participating in a lot of Western art shows and competitions. Then she met her husband David Thimgan, a historical Marine artist. The two began to enjoy frequent trips to the beautiful northern California coast together and before long June began painting vineyards and the water also.

June is a Fellow in the American Society of Marine Artists and an Artist Member of the California Art Club.

Alexander Valley Vineyard (detail)

"A large part of what drives me to paint is a passion to create a place I want to be. No place on earth is more inviting to me than the wine country of Northern California. The vineyards I paint become mine."
